

BRANNON TO SPEAK AT FATHER AND SON BANQUET, TUESDAY

The bar and the man will go together next week under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. in the local observance of the annual Father-Son week, Feb. 15-22. C. Preston, secretary, stated today that the main feature of the week will be a banquet to be held at the association building at 8:45 o'clock Tuesday evening.

Every father and son in the city, provided the son is more than 14 years old, is invited to attend the banquet. Reservations are due at the Y. M. C. A. office before Monday night. The principal speaker of the evening will be Melvin A. Brannon, president of Beloit college. Other speakers to be chosen from among the sons and fathers will be announced later.

Plans are being made for special services in the churches Sunday, Feb. 22. Follow-up letters are being sent to the fathers of the boys who were present at the banquet two months ago, to be held in the various churches.

Voice of the People

Feb. 11

Editor of Gazette: I would like to know something about the other laws of this city. When a boy of 14, of good character, has been guilty of no disorderly conduct has Mayor Welsh a right to throw him out of the city of a theater? Is not a citizen in private life as good as one in the public life that he must be insulted in the presence of a crowd by being collared by the mayor and threatened with jail when he has committed no crime?

That thing happened at the Beloit theater Sunday night and there seems to be no redress for one of the working class just for the reason it was the mayor. Why do many lawyers seem to fear the mayor? Please tell me. I, as an American citizen, cannot understand why a private citizen should be thus bullied and threatened by one in a responsible position—placed there by the vote of the people.

Very respectfully,
MRS. M. A. CLARK,
215 Prospect avenue.

FAUST EMPHASIZES VALUE OF EDUCATION

"There is a greater demand for high school graduates in the business world today than ever before," said Supt. H. H. Faust in an address at high school this morning during the convocation period.

"Your chances without a high school education are measured in dollars and cents. Today is your opportunity for a high school education—tomorrow may be too late." He said students could in a large measure assist in making the high school one of 100 percent efficiency, if they would cooperate with the teachers. "Cultivating the ability of doing more work in less time gives more satisfaction than anything else in the world," he declared.

"Your power to overcome difficulties in high school will measure your power to overcome obstacles which confront you in the business and social world."

Koehn of Milwaukee, also went into the lead in the two-man event with a score of 2,295. W. Terry and H. Koehn of Milwaukee, went into third place with a score of 1,179 in that event.

In the singles event E. F. Kobernuths of Milwaukee, took the lead with a total of 16. The Beaumont Hotel's five-man team of Green Day rolled into fourth place in that event with a score of 2,737.

THAT OLD-FASHIONED SAINT
By Mollie Price Cook.
"Why do we celebrate St. Valentine's day, do you know?"
"It's like most of our customs, Dorothy. A celebration that has only a local interest, is taken up by outsiders and falls into universal use. In the first century A. D. there were two Roman priests named Valentine who did much good for their people, distributing alms and sacrificing themselves in many ways. They died on the same day. Thereafter the Romans did the honoring by distributing gifts on their memorial day—February 14."

"Did we just copy the custom from the Romans?"
"Not exactly. When Roman customs came into England, a little of the St. Valentine spirit remained. Rural folk adopted the habit of making St. Valentine's day an occasion for gifts between sweethearts. If the young man did not give a gift to his bride-to-be on February 14, she had cause for annulling the engagement. It is also thought that St. Valentine's day is the time when birds begin to mate, therefore a little messages of love between friends."

Dorothy said: "Mother, I'm going to make St. Valentine's day a day for my friends. There is not one who will not know how I value friendship. When you see my list, you will be surprised to hear that I have sent to her desk and wrote. Here is her plan:

1. Answer Aunt Eleanor's letter.
2. Write grandmother (I send each of the girls a card wishing her good luck for next year).
3. Send each of the girls a card wishing her good luck for next year.
4. Write a short note to every member of the family saying something pleasant (to be used instead of place cards at the dinner table).
5. Return the book I borrowed from Mary White.
6. Mend my stockings.
7. Do something especially nice for mother.
8. Be pleasant all day.
9. Do all the odds and ends that I have been neglecting.
10. As I do each thing I will make a check over the things she listed and showed it to her mother with some hesitation. "Mother, I was a little embarrassed over the things she listed and showed it to her mother with some hesitation. After the dinner all took a hand at washing the dishes and attended the Lakota Folies.

THE HEAD STAND
By Dr. E. D. Angell.
"What new trick will you teach us today?" asked Ralph.
Beppo walked to the mat and bent forward till head and hands were on the mat; his legs straightened in the air and, motionless as a statue, he stood there on his head. "That's it," he said. "It's so dead easy that I am surprised every boy in the world does not do it naturally. It's really much harder to stand on your feet than on your head; for when you stand down, you have three points of support—your head and two hands. Now watch me and remember all that I tell you—kneel on the left knee with the right foot just a few inches ahead of the knee—place both hands on the floor with fingers spread—place your head on the floor about a foot in front of the hands—rest both knees on your elbows and lift your feet from the floor. See—I am standing on my head but my legs are not up in the air.

Beppo made the boys do what he had shown them a number of times, and when they had demonstrated that they could hold the position easily, he continued his lesson.
"Remember what you have just learned," said the little clown, "and the perfect head stand will come with a little practice. From the position I have just taught you, raise the legs very gradually and don't let your neck wobble—keep your feet well in front until you get the feel of the balance. Boys usually fall in too much of a hurry, and they fall on their heads. But if you get it easily and slowly raise your legs, you can keep your balance and before long you will wonder why you didn't do it the very first time you tried."
"When you get home place a soft pillow about a foot from the wall and try your head stand on that; if you over-balance, touch the wall with your feet and that will help you get the feel of the head stand."
"Thank you," said Beppo. Money by Selling Homemade Handkerchiefs."

DR. DAVID BEATON.

The death of Dr. David Beaton comes as a shock to the many people of Janesville who knew him and admired his fine mental qualities and sterling, independent manhood. Dr. Beaton was a deep, logical thinker and one of the best posted men on history and theology it has been the city's privilege to number among its citizens. He was a close student of political economy, a keen observer, and his lectures on current topics were masterpieces.

A Scotchman by birth, he embodied those sturdy qualifications which make for strength in character. Dr. Beaton, during his life, had his share in building youth into Christian manhood and womanhood. Aside from his various pastorates, he founded Redfield college at Redfield, S. Dak., and acted as its president for several years. He was a great lover of the out of doors and a keen sportsman—he was a man clear through and as life's book closes, there is written on the last page—"he helped to build the minds of men to a better understanding of life's duties."

ONE BUILDING OR TWO?

Rock county needs a stock sales pavilion.
Janesville needs a community building.

It has been suggested to a committee of farmers and business men appointed to investigate sites for the pavilion and empowered with authority to choose that the Janesville fair grounds would form a suitable location. On the other hand, interested parties feel that the building should of necessity be nearer the railroads.

Yesterday at the joint meeting of the Chamber of Commerce and the Rotary club at the Grand hotel, Frank P. Mann, a most successful big-merchant in a small North Dakota town, made a suggestion. He advocated the erection of the pavilion down town so that it might be used the year round. He said that he believes it would be wise to build a combination structure to be used for more than just a place in which to hold sales and exhibitions of cattle—a place where automobile shows, conventions, and athletics might be held.

The idea is not new. Several eminent Janesville men had already thought of it. The argument against it has been the initial cost of land down town as compared to the fair grounds.

Some day the city will have to have a community building. It will naturally have to be erected down town. The longer we wait, the more costly will the land be.

Here is an opportunity to combine two public buildings in one on one parcel of land and counterbalance the added cost of building the stock pavilion down town by saving the cost of one parcel of land and the increased prices of the future.

Madison has a combination sales pavilion and coliseum. This shows that the two can be worked together. But Madison's structure is located in a place similar to what the fair grounds would be to Janesville, inconvenient to the mass of the people. This is Janesville's chance to profit by the mistake of the Capital city.

WE ARE NOT ALTOGETHER SIMPLE.

Our English friends are more or less troubled because of a belief that we do not like them. Not only the Irish-Americans and their political friends, we are informed, but many others as well, are lacking in regard for our late associates in war. Letters from the other side express regret, and ask the reason for diminishing good will.

Thoughtful persons realize that Anglo-American friendship must be the basis for the world's security and peace in future, and deplore efforts to stir up old prejudices; but despite this attitude, these same persons are conscious of a decline in cordiality. What are the reasons, aside from the Irish problem and the natural reactions following the close of hostilities? To enumerate a few:

1. The belief of many that President Wilson was persuaded to accept a league of nations that will be chiefly useful in holding the British empire together, and in which the empire will, outvote us six to one.

2. A conviction that the military class in England is inclined to belittle our part in the war.

3. Dislike for such harsh measures as were employed by General Dyer, who dispersed a mass meeting in a suburb of Amritsar, in the Punjab region, India, by shooting dead nearly 500 of the fleeing people, and wounding nearly 1,500 more. No chance to escape or surrender was given the unarmed natives.

4. Distrust of British policy in Egypt, Persia and Mesopotamia.

5. Belief that the English still look upon us as crude, primitive, and generally inferior to themselves in most ways. This belief is fostered by publications like an article on the typical Englishman in a recent issue of the "New Statesman," a London weekly, which said in describing the Englishman that he is "not a perfect man, but a better man than any other man"; that he is "not so simple-minded as an American."

We could forgive our British friends almost everything else if they could give up pointing out ways in which we are inferior to them. That is maddening to us, as it is to Canadians. To be sure, a young, pioneering race is more direct, frank, cordial, more effusive, less reserved, than members of an older civilization. But must we concede that such qualities betoken simple-mindedness?

Thomas W. Lamont, New York, indicated a fair degree of worldly wisdom when in an article in the Annual Financial and Commercial Review of the London

JUST FOLKS

Edgar A. Guest

THE PRICE OF SUCCESS.

If you haven't the patience to work and wait,
To build with precision and lay your bricks straight;
If you haven't the courage to grin now and then
When the structure falls down, and to start in again,
Just remain where you are and be satisfied, too,
For the hazards out there will be too much for you.

If you can't stand alone in the thick of the fight,
And persist in your course when you know you are right;
If you can't keep your faith when it's greeted with sneers,
And still go for the goal which but dimly appears,
Don't leave the broad highway to carve out a new
For the hardships out there will be too much for you.

If you can't get along without flattery or praise,
And the comforts and joys of these wonderful days;
If you tire over quickly or give up at a blow,
Or think it no use when your progress is slow;
If you're one who must have everything his own way,
Then the price of success you're not willing to pay.

But if you will take all the fates have to give,
Stand hardships and setbacks, still glad that you live;
If you'll cling to your faith and keep plodding along
When disaster befalls you and everything's wrong;
If you're willing to battle and never give in,
Go after your dream, for in time you will win.

Times he suggested that our British and French friends would stand a better chance in making sentimental appeals to America for loans if they would protect their exchange rates instead of rushing off to use money in capturing new trade outlets opened to them by the defeat of Germany.

Nor are we likely to heed the suggestion of John Maynard Keynes, British treasury expert, who would have us forgive the allied debts to us amounting to ten billions, thus making our indemnity equal to the reduced amount he would collect from Germany.

We are going to remain good friends with the British. We have faults to match theirs, goodness knows, and then there is always the need for keeping up friendships in the world. But let them presume on our simple-mindedness at the risk of being disappointed!

THE FARMER'S BEST YEAR.

Not all figures make dull reading. Take for example the valuation of American farm products for 1919, as given out by the Department of Agriculture, which reaches the remarkable total of $14,092,740,000. Add to these figures the value of animal products for the year, and we get the combined total of $23,800,000,000.

We have groaned over the cost of the war, which has quadrupled taxation. The war was costly enough, in all conscience, as we expended nearly as much as France or England. This cheering thing about the figures quoted in the first paragraph is this: Great as was the cost of the war, the value of our crops and animal products for a single year reaches approximately the same amount. The farmers received two billions more for their products in 1919 than in 1918. No wonder the country is prosperous!

Whether 1920 will do so well for the farmer is open to doubt. Europe's demand, which has helped so much to keep up prices and exports, is likely to fall off as the war-stricken countries get back on their feet and resume production. In any event, our growing city populations will give the farmers good markets for all time to come. If they could only get labor enough to work the farms, they could look to the future with a good degree of contentment.

That warning to Clemenceau to keep away, from Egypt was all that was needed to make him take the quickest method of getting there.

Evidently Bill Hohenzollern would see Holland punished rather than give himself up for trial. "It's the nature of the beast."

Folks who think they see revolution breeding in America chiefly need an ice cold shower every morning.

Backward Glimpses

FORTY YEARS AGO

Feb. 12, 1880.—There has been much talk throughout the city lately of building a railroad between this city and Beloit. A. A. Jackson was in Milwaukee yesterday conferring with some officials of the St. Paul line who state that the road might be built if enough money could be raised. Janesville's amount was estimated at not over $10,000 for the construction.

THIRTY YEARS AGO

Feb. 12, 1890.—The city will be canvassed by words by the Business Men's Association to receive donations of money and clothes for the Dakota sufferers.—Over 200 people attended the masquerade given last night by the Night Owl Wandering club in the armory.—There were three tramps in court this morning. One was given a sentence.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Feb. 12, 1900.—A movement is now on foot in the city to establish a library in the Y. M. C. A. building. These interested state that the library would cost about $1,000 which they hope to raise from the business men of the city.—Word was received here that two men who are suspected of robbing the Milton bank, are being held in Prairie du Chien.

TEN YEARS AGO

Feb. 12, 1910.—Nearly all the stock for the Monitor Auto company has been sold and it is certain that the factory will locate here. They will occupy the building on North Academy street owned by M. F. Green and Son.—James Bigelow, a civil war veteran and a resident of the city for 31 years, passed away last night.

Tapping the Earth

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN, Director

Janesville Daily Gazette Information Bureau,
Washington, D. C.

Washington, Feb. 12.—In a recent address in London Sir Charles Parsons, the well known English scientist, stated that the active power being used to generate something like 10,000 horse power through the agency of the Parsons turbine. A similar project is on foot at Soldara, near Naples, and both experiments promise to be successful.

In the latter experiment, the steam, at first tapped from under ground, having a temperature of nearly 400 degrees Fahrenheit, was used to drive an engine used for driving a dynamo in a borax plant. The alkaline character of the steam corroded the engine and machinery to such an extent that it timely end to the utilization of nature's power. However, the difficulty was surmounted finally in a simple manner. The steam was driven into the rocks to a depth of from 300 to 500 feet, where the steam reservoirs were tapped. The steam obtained was of a temperature of about 250 degrees Fahrenheit, which in turn was converted into steam and fed directly to the engine.

Both of these experiments, however, volcanic conditions made their character comparatively simple, their chief difficulty being the transportation of the possibilities of natural force.

Parsons suggests that the natural forces of the earth might be utilized in a similar manner. Parsons in an address delivered in London last year, suggested that a shaft of 12 miles in depth would cost about $25,000,000, and require about 85 years to bore. The expense, he pointed out, would be comparatively small compared to the cost to England of one day of war, while the value of the knowledge gained would be incalculable.

His contention that a 12 mile shaft would be entirely practical has been sustained by Prof. Frank A. S. McGinnis, a geologist at McGill University in Montreal, and various American scientists. Professor Adams after exhaustive research has concluded that a shaft might be sunk 10 miles in limestone, and 80 miles in granite.

Investigations as to temperature conditions a mile and half below the surface of the earth have already been conducted by C. F. Van Orstrand of the United States Geological Survey. Mr. Van Orstrand is credited with being one of the leading experts of the world on the measurement of deep well temperatures, and his results are regarded by scientists as most reliable.

His experiments were conducted chiefly in the Lake and Gulf wells of West Virginia—the two deepest wells in the world, and a source of great pride to American scientists. Until the Lake and Gulf wells were sunk, West Virginia, was sunk, Cuzchov, in the heart of the Silesian coal fields, in Germany enjoyed the distinction of possessing the deepest well in the world. The German drillers succeeded in reaching a depth of 7,348 feet at great expense, and after many years of work. The expense and length of time required to drill the Cuzchov well served as a deterrent to other oil and coal men from attempting to break the record for deep well drilling, and for many years the German record has stood undisputed.

But petroleum and natural gas have a compelling lure for the oil man and scientist, a lure that leads him to delve deeper and deeper into the world's crust with visions of untold wealth and knowledge to lead them on.

For many years Dr. J. C. White, state geologist of West Virginia, and his brother scientists had contended that the rich oil-bearing sands of Ohio, known as the Clinton sands, could be found in West Virginia at a depth of about 5,000 feet.

Encouraged by Dr. White, and anxious to break the record held so long by the Cuzchov well in Germany, John G. Pew, president and general manager of the natural gas company, determined to make an attempt to reach these sands. The result of his ambition was the Gulf well, located about eight miles out of Clarksburg, West Virginia. This well, when operations were completed, had reached a depth of 7,348 feet—500 feet below the Cuzchov record! By 21 feet, but failing to produce any oil. When the Gulf well had been completed, and the Cuzchov record

The Gazette maintains an information bureau at Washington, D. C., under the direction of Frederic J. Haskin. Questions will be answered on any subject. Those desiring information write a letter to the Janesville Daily Gazette Information Bureau, Washington, D. C., and enclose a stamp. The letter will be answered by the bureau.

Q. Who appointed Charles Evans Hughes a member of the supreme court? E. O. C.

A. He was appointed associate justice of the United States supreme court in 1910 by President Taft. Hughes resigned four years ago to become the republican candidate for the presidency.

Q. How should the itch be treated? A. J. A.

A. The Public Health Service says that a simple but good way to treat this skin trouble is to rub the body with powdered sulphur daily for a week, after taking a hot bath. It also to sprinkle sulphur on the bed sheets at night and on the underwear during the day. The sheets and underwear should be changed each day. A sulphur ointment, composed of two teaspoonful of sulphur and eight tablespoonful of vaseline, is also very good to rub into the skin, after taking a hot bath.

Q. Is there any limit to the number of members that may sit in the House of Commons of the British Parliament? E. W.

A. There is no limit to the creation of Peers, except the will of the House. The House of Lords is an ever-increasing body which consists at the present time of about 630 members, the average attendance of whom during the comparatively brief sitting is less than 50. This number is considerably increased in any party emergency.

Q. How many deaths result annually from automobile accidents? J. A. H.

A. The Census Bureau says that in 1918 the figures available show there were a total of 7,525 deaths from automobile accidents in the United States.

Q. Why is Persia sometimes referred to as "the land of roses and nightingales?" H. C.

A. Persia is a natural habitat for the nightingale, and these songsters are abundant there. For many centuries the Persians have been considered among the best on the market. These are largely made from the juice of rose petals. The cultivation of roses for commercial purposes is quite general there.

ON THE SPUR of the MOMENT

BY K. MOULTON

Pilgrims Progress in Society.

In our advice to beginners we would say that the shortest cut to social preferment lies in the entertainment of distinguished persons. Luella Hector, I received our first tip in this matter when the James Frothingham Binks entertained a celebrated poet from India with a name I have never been able to remember, and that I had never heard before.

We wore a lavender kimono and recited things. I will not say that he was an ex-pullman porter, because I never say mean things. One can accomplish just as much by innuendo.

However, the very next week Luella and I entertained a celebrated poetess of passion from the west. We had learned that if, at the fatal zero hour, when you go over the social top, you can take a distinguished person with you your battle is won. This girl, an old friend of Luella's, passed through the ordeal nobly and recited half the American Anthology the first evening. She had never had anything of her own published.

We followed this up almost immediately by introducing Luella's niece Hector, also from the far west. Uncle Hector was a prominent painter. We did not think it necessary to say exactly what he painted, and no one in our set was undiplomatic enough to ask.

Uncle Hector had a distressing way of turning the conversation in the direction of the raising of fancy swine was a hobby of one of the sort of a side line, as it were. Honestly prompt me to say that as far as old masters were concerned, I don't believe Uncle Hector could have told a genuine Rubinstein from an imitation Van Winkle, but I do know personally that when he was a younger man he painted some of the best houses in Kansas City.

Others in our set have entertained famous poets, actors, engineers, soldiers and copper kings, and we have never had a catastrophe. The ethics are always closely observed and distinguished guests are never given the third degree.

You don't have to consult the Ouija board to find out whether there is going to be an increase in the price of coal. The dealers seem to have an uncanny sense of second-sight in that matter.

How Did He Manage That? He sat at Mrs. Collier's right. On his left was Mrs. Van Dyke. "Green Fancies," by George Barr McCutcheon.

No Fatalities as Yet. (From the Golden, Ill., Era.) A domestic science club of three ladies and a boy has been started in the north part of town. As that eat their cooking are doing well.

If you want to see every style of hat known in the past forty years, gaze into the well-known presidential ring.

Emma Goldman said that, in deporting her, America signed its own death warrant. But it looks as though it may be a lingering death.

Another Frontier. A lady in Des Moines has sold her husband for $5,000 in cash. Inflated values seem to be the order of the day.

THE NEIGHBORHOOD PLAYHOUSE

By devious subway, street car and elevator routes the devotees of dramatic art reach the Neighborhood Playhouse, one of New York's mecca for the cultured. It is situated on the lower East Side and boasts a most artistic little building with a simple interior of black wood paneling and dull gold plaster. It was started by settlement workers a few years ago to give the immigrant young people dwelling in the slums a chance to develop their gifts of self-expression, and their parents a place to meet and see them. But its fame has spread abroad, and now the audiences which gather for its Saturday and Sunday evening performances are a strange mixture—intellectual youths, short-haired girls, foreigners from the neighborhood and a sprinkling of strayed Broadway playgoers.

The Neighborhood players too, although still amateurs who give their time and talent for the love of it, are no longer all residents of the neighborhood. And one can join the group who has the acting ability and time.

They make all their own scenes and costumes in the building, and carry out all the activities of stagecraft most successfully. Many a new famous playwright has had his first American hearing in this little theater, and many a noted visitor to our shores has made a pilgrimage to our lower East Side to see his initial triumph in our country. Galsworthy, Ellen Terry, Lord Dunsany, are a few of the distinguished names in the visitor's book.

His inscription on the visitor's book reads: "Dunsany, whose spirit was first discovered wait-like in Grand street, an unknown immigrant, about 1915." It is intriguing to think that the genius of this scion of British aristocracy was first made welcome in the slums of New York, while he was still unknown uptown among our supposedly cultured. And it is also intriguing to look closely at his inscription and discover that this most cultivated literary man spells immigrant quaintly with one "m".

DIVORCES WIFE WHO IS ASHAMED OF HIM

Because his wife is ashamed of being on the street with him and because the society of younger people, N. H. Harkness, aged 55 years, Evansville, Ind., applied for divorce in the circuit court here and yesterday was granted a decree by Judge George Griffin. Furthermore, he declared that his wife, Nina, aged 23 years, whom he married at Rockford, Ill., when she was 16 years of age, had often expressed a wish that he would divorce her.

The two children of the marriage, a girl aged seven, and a boy of four years, were awarded to the woman. The plaintiff was ordered to pay her $12 weekly for their maintenance.

On charges that her husband sought the company of degenerate women, and cruelty, Fern Watson, 26, Beloit, was granted an absolute divorce by Judge Griffin from Philip Watson, 23, and given the custody of their seven year old child.

STOCKHOLDERS HELD LIABLE FOR $2,000

Every stockholder in the now defunct Wisconsin Produce company, a Janesville house, was held responsible in the payment of a $2,000 note by a decision handed down yesterday in the circuit court here by Judge George Griffin in a suit of Avery vs. Crandall.

After the judge had ruled that the issue was one for the jury, but in the case for the court, and dismissed the panel, he ruled that inasmuch as the stockholders had elected in March, 1918, the same trustees, they had by such action ratified all the previous acts of the directors, one of which was the giving of the note to Crandall. He therefore ordered that the stockholders are liable for their proportionate share of the $2,000.

SUE FOR $6,000 ON TOBACCO CONTRACTS

Failure to live up to contracts is the basis of a suit brought by Hunkins & Schwartz, tobacco dealers, 507 West Bluff street, against John H. Hendrich and Edward P. McCarty, tobaccoists of Evansville, Ind., operating under the name of H. Hendrich. Amounts totaling about $6,000 are involved.

In 1914, the Hendrich concern delegated the local house to act as their agents in buying, selling and shipping tobacco. Hunkins & Schwartz to advance a certain sum of money, in the first contract $25,000 for 2,800 cases of tobacco. Later this contract was altered to cover 3,500 cases. At that time, the Indiana people refused to live up to the contract, according to the papers filed with Jesse H. Clark, clerk of the circuit court here.

FORD ASKS MARRIAGE ANNULLED BY COURT

John W. Ford, 19, 209 Milton avenue, through his guardian, H. A. Ford, has applied for an annulment of his marriage to Beatrice G. Ford, Springfield, Mass., according to papers filed yesterday in the office of the clerk of circuit court here. The contract was entered into by the parties at the time of the marriage.

The wedding, the culmination of a romance when young Ford was in the army, took place at Paterson, N. J., October 4, 1918, when he was 17 years of age. The bride, Beatrice Griffith, formerly of Beloit, the couple never lived together as man and wife, the legal papers say.

Beloved Pastor to Be Buried Here

Funeral services for the Rev. David Beaton, who died at St. Joseph's hospital at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the Wellington Avenue Congregational church here, will be held at 2 o'clock today at Oak Hill cemetery. The body will be brought to this city by the funeral party arriving on the 12:20 Chicago and Northwestern train, Saturday morning going to Chicago for the funeral. He was buried in the cemetery here. He was a member of the Congregational church, followed an operation. Efforts to save him by transfusion of blood proved fruitless.

Beaton was born in Scotland 72 years ago. He preached in Newfoundland upon coming to this country and later in Chicago. He founded Redfield college at Redfield, S. D., was a lecturer at the University of Chicago extension bureau, and wrote two books.

For 20 years he was pastor of the Lincoln Park, now the Wellington Avenue Congregational church, Chicago. He gave up his pulpit there ten years ago to answer a call sent by the local church. He returned to Chicago five years ago to become pastor of the Kenilworth Union church, which charge he held up to the time of his death.

He was beloved by every member of the local congregation who are almost unanimous in declaring him the best pastor they ever had. He was a great scholar and a kind husband and father.

He survived by his wife and five children, one of whom, Mrs. H. S. Leveley, resides in this city.

He was instrumental in securing the government survey to determine the feasibility of making Rock river navigable. For 45 years he practiced law.

At moments when he was rational he explained that he had been working so hard in the job printing department of the Monroe Times for ten days that he had become completely run down and had been sent to the hospital there. Leaving the hospital yesterday, apparently recovered, he was seized with an attack on the train coming to Janesville this morning.

CIRCUS GIRL TELLS STORY TO MAXFIELD

Trips to Hawaii and Canada, adventures with clowns and carnavals, were related in municipal court today by Mrs. Bud Hicks as mere uninteresting facts in her short life, which has admitted by her a "hard case." Arrested by Chief Morrissey for questionable actions on downtown streets and in a restaurant, she was given 10 days in jail for a "hard case" of all charges and her promise to live a straight life.

Insisting that her real name was Bud Hicks, she said she was born in New Orleans and that her parents were divorced shortly after her birth, she being taken to Honolulu by her mother. At the age of 18 she declared she became restless and sailed back to the States in company with a gentleman friend, with whom she lived in Seattle for a short time. She said she was a rider in a circus for several years, but lately had been operating a "hoop-a-la" stand with a carnival company having a regular quarter in Florida. Declaring she came here a few weeks ago from Superior and Duluth, she said she lived for a few days in a hotel with her "daddy," whom upon questioning proved to be a man she claims as her husband.

PACKED HOUSE SEES FINAL LAKOTA SHOW

A packed house enjoyed the second and final performance of the Lakota Folios at the Myers theater last night, and went away declaring it to be the best home talent production ever seen in Janesville.

Howard Clithero in the Oriental scene singing "Living in a Harem," George Bennett's bathing beauties, Larry Cushing singing "All the Quakers Are Shoulder Shakers," with a chorus, were again the hits of the show.

Credit for the complete success of both performances is due C. Mort Phinn, Beloit, Miss Alyce Brewer, Altoona, and Miss Pauline Gatten, this city, together with members of the various committees which directed the show.

Abraham Lincoln's honesty and integrity were of such genuine quality that the word "honest" became part of his very name. "Honest" Abe, who said Americans do not believe in titles!

Today—the anniversary of the birth of Lincoln—is a fitting time to think for a few moments of the life of this great American.

FINED FOR TAKING RED VELVET SEATS

Pleading guilty to a charge of stealing two red velvet preserver seats from the Chicago & Northwestern railroad company here George W. Homan and Charles Hall, two local young men, were today fined $15 and costs each by Judge Maxfield in municipal court. They chose payment of the fines in preference to the alternative—20 days in jail.

Complaint was made by Austin McCarthy, railroad detective. The goods were said to have been stolen sometime during January of this month. The judge showed leniency because it was found to be their first offense.

"First, I would like to know what you paid Luck Cullison for his Del Oro claim."

"You better ask Cullison. The law says that if a man sells a relinquishment he can't file on another claim. If he surrenders it for nothing he can't. Now, Luck may have notions of filing on another claim. You can see that he'll have to take it for granted he gave me the claim."

"It was so neat an answer and at the same time so complete a one that O'Connor could not help appreciating it. He smiled and said: 'You're under arrest.'"

"For what?" demanded the sheepman sharply.

Cocoanut Oil Makes

A Splendid Shampoo

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain unsifted cocoanut oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than the most expensive soap or any thing else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoon-fuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily and removes every particle of dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get unsifted cocoanut oil at just any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.

BAD COUGH; NIGHT

SWEATS; LOST WEIGHT

Mr. Coleman Thought His Time Had

Come, But He's Well Now.

"I was taken with a dry, hard cough about 6 months ago. Finally I got so sore across the chest, I could hardly breathe; had night sweats, and everything would be vomiting wet and coughed continually until

I thought I would die. I had no appetite, spent over $100 on doctors and medicines, and was worse off than when I started.

The first bottle of Milla Emulsion did me more good than all the $100 spent for other treatment. It soon gave me a good appetite, my cough left me, and I have gained the flesh and strength I had before I was sick."

—Arthur Coleman, Box 331, Helena,

Mont.

You need an appetite, a good stomach, and some real strength if you want to fight off disease. Give Milla

Emulsion a trial at its maker's risk.

Milla Emulsion is a pleasant, nutritious food and a corrective medicine.

It restores healthy, natural bowel action, doing away with all need of pills and physics. It promotes appetite and quickly puts the digestive organs in shape to assimilate food, a builder of flesh and strength. Milla Emulsion is strongly recommended to those whom sickness has weakened. It is a powerful aid in restoring and repairing the effects of wasting disease, chronic stomach trouble, and constipation are promptly relieved—usually in one day.

This is the only solid emulsion made, and so palatable that it is eat-ed with a spoon like ice cream.

No matter how weak or feeble cases,

you are urged to try Milla Emulsion under this guarantee—Take six bottles home with you, use it according to directions and if not satisfied with the results, your money will be promptly refunded. Price 40c and $1.00

Dinner Stories

In old England the following story admirably illustrates the industrial situation: Two miners were discussing the minimum wage.

"Say, Bill," said the first, "what's this 'ere minimum wage?"

"Well, it's a wage," said the second,

"that's what we get for goin' down

the mine."

"No, they can't neither," snapped

the other.

"No, if you had two faces you would never be seen out with the one you're wearing now," was the rejoinder.

other, "I was one of the 'wealthy customer class.'"

It was a little argument between two women in Shoreland High street.

"There is one thing no one can say about you," said one of the combatants. "No one can ever call you two faced."

"No, they can't neither," snapped

the other.

TITTEMORE REFUSES TO RUN FOR GOVERNOR

(By Associated Press.)
Marshallfield, Feb. 11.—Despite the unanimous opinion of several hundred equity delegates in meeting here calling on Pres. J. N. Tittmore to become a candidate in the republican ranks for the governorship of Wisconsin, the equity president refused to consider the petition. "We are not here for political purposes," he said. "It is the plan of the conference to unite the county organizations under a state head."

Rhineland—Seven members of the family of Robert Westcott had a narrow escape from asphyxiation here when a connection in a gas meter worked loose. The father up the conference in the morning was able to throw open the windows and to arouse the other members of the family before serious consequences had resulted.

CARRANZA REGIME BARS COLONIZATION BY LAND GRANTS

(By Associated Press.)
Mexico City (By mail).—President Carranza's administration intends to recover to the nation great tracts of land conceded by previous administrations to foreign interests, according to statements of Mexican officials. It intends also to enforce the constitutional prohibition barring foreigners from holding lands within 62 miles of the Mexican frontier and 31 miles from the coastline.

The general trend of their state-forgiveness to the effect that it is the purpose of the administration to avoid colonization projects that might eventually endanger the nation and to recover dominion over oil lands without violating the legal rights of the present producers.

These statements were made in explanation of the government's request that the 1915 congress float a loan of 50,000,000 pesos to enable the nation to recover land held under concessions by foreign interests.

The officials stated that the greater part of several states, such as Lower California and Chihuahua, held by foreigners under concessions, given by previous administrations.

Where the terms of the concessions have not been complied with, the government plans to nullify all concessions granted under the Diaz and Madero regimes. Only those where prescribed obligations have not been met will be annulled, he asserts.

Interests who have been deprived of their concessions by the nullification have declared that interior conditions for the last 10 years have made it impossible for them to fulfill their agreements. Various British representatives are said to be pushing for indemnification for work done in concessions, especially in Lower California and Chihuahua.

Denial is made by Pastor Rouaix, secretary of Agriculture and Development, that the government plans to nullify all concessions granted under the Diaz and Madero regimes. Only those where prescribed obligations have not been met will be annulled, he asserts.

The Most Reliable Harvesting and Haying Machines

The Most Efficient Tractors and Power Machines

The Most Popular Plows and Tillage Implements

YOU know these trade names. Your father and grandfather knew three of them. They knew in their time, and you know today that these names stand for the highest quality farm machinery in the world. McCormick built the first practical reaper, Deering sold the first twine binder and was a good-twine pioneer, and William Parlin was one of the first steel plow pioneers. The lines of harvesting machines and plows started by these farm machine builders have been growing and developing ever since. Other machines have been invented and developed by the same manufacturers, and every new machine and implement has had built into it the years of manufacturing experience and farm knowledge accumulated by McCormick, Deering, Parlin and their successors. Now all of these machines and implements have been merged into one line—the International Harvester. The reputation of every machine and implement in this line is the same.

We Sell the International Line

What does this mean to you as a farmer? It means, first of all, that you can buy any farm machine or implement you may need, right here in this town, without taking chances on experiments or implements that might be "orphaned" one or two years after you buy them because of the manufacturer going out of business. You can always get repairs for any machine or implement in the International line because the Harvester Company will never go out of business. You are assured of reliable machines because every machine in the Harvester line is tried out and tested under actual farm conditions, before being offered for sale to the farmer. The Experimental Department of the Harvester Company is the most thorough and active institution of its kind.

It means, second, that you can get repairs and repair service on all of these machines through one concern—us. You don't have to go to the bother and inconvenience of trying to get repairs and service from half a dozen or more different companies. You won't be taking chances on expensive delays waiting for repairs during the busy seasons because we are going to carry a big stock of repairs on hand and any repairs that we might not have we can get for you in a hurry by a phone call to the International Harvester branch house.

Tack this advertisement up in your machine shed so that whenever you need repairs for any of your International machines you will know where to go. Also, you will know where to go when you are in the market for new machines or implements of real quality and the highest operating efficiency.
